RAVER OF THE MONTH

Dear Quest & Hardcore Nutty Members

I would like to nominate my local up & coming DJ & MC as Ravers of the Month. In the last month they attended the most liveliest club promoting hardcore & jungle - QUEST. They went to the Fibre Optic night on June 12th and said it was like a dream. They have recently bought T-shirts from Quest Merchandise for a holiday in Tenerife promoting Quest around Europe to keep the Quest scene totally alive. Best tapes of last month Pilgrim 12 & Ratty 10. Best rave of the year Tribal Gathering, Universe and last but not least respek to the most IE$%&% nuttiest duo Ratty & Robbie Dee & Danny, plus all the Fibre Optic crew, taking hardcore & Techno Jungle into new dimensions. Keeping Safe,

All the Stockton Massive and the local DJ Hooker and Young MC

chit chat.....

Congratulations to Carl from Kingswinford and Mel from Tividale who met at Quest and are getting engaged on August 21st, from Nexus, Dino, Kaos & Friends.....Buy Eternity this month and read the 4 page feature on Quest....Don't forget if you organise a coach to Quest we'll give you up to £150 towards the cost - ring us!

WIN! COMPETITION! WIN!

Uncle Bill's Agony Column

Any letters printed on this page receive two guest passes to Quest

Dear Uncle Bill,

My friends go to Quest every week, I am still plastic. My only pleasure is cutting up their flyers and sending off for memberships. Please help me, I don't have a life. A plastic raver, named Ben from Telford

(I Love Ratpack)

Uncle Bill says:

Ben, you sound beyond help and remember no plastics allowed in Quest

Dear Uncle Bill,

Can you give me some serious hardcore advise? Bill, I'm having a serious problem related to my day time job. It's not the fact that I have all day just sat there slapping away on my keyboard, answering phone calls from all my mates. Phoning them up after they've collected their Giros. Getting back to the point. I keep feeling funny after I've had a roll-up at lunchtime. It's doing no good for me at work. Everybody thinks I'm wired, shot away, they keep saying I look glazed. What is it that does this to me? My friend makes the roll-ups. Does this have anything to do with it?

Regards, Ivor Paranoia

Uncle Bill says:

It sounds the ideal way to spend the day. Ask your friend if he wants to come and work for me.

Dear Uncle Bill,

A couple of years ago I started to collect flyers (god knows why) within a year I started getting hooked on the bloody things. I achieved a collection of 274,007 flyers. At first I started using them for roaches, wallpaper and finally started eating them. I now eat at least 100 flyers a day and nothing else. None of my friends talk to me, and every time I come out of a rave people try to grab me and read me. Please help me as this has changed my appearance and personality.

Matthew Jackson, Finchfield

Uncle Bill says:

You stupid boy! Think how much rain forest you have wasted.

Dear Uncle Bill,

I recently have found myself to be having a complete identity crisis. I have managed to convince myself that I am DJ Pilgrim. I have gone to absolutely stupid extremes. I have gone out and spent loads on expensive Stone Island gear. I have locks up my hair and have invested in a head band (white, trendy eh?). Please help me because I feel I am turning into a complete and utter 'popstar'.

Help! Yours, Rob Vassel, Wolverhampton

Uncle Bill says:

Seek psychiatric advice immediately and drop the head band before it's too late and you start appearing on Top Of The Pops.

Letters

Dear Quest,

I am in the army posted to Germany. My troop is full of beer monsters who give me grief for being a raver. To decorate my walls I put up flyers. I also have Mays newsletter and a page from Eternity magazine covering 'Obsession-Passion' at Milton Keynes. I was chuffed with the page because I appeared on the photo and it was my own personal 'claim to fame'.

Yesterday morning (2nd July) my sergeant major and a military policeman burst into my room while I was on a rare day off. They confiscated the newsletter and magazine cutting. The Sgt Major returned about half an hour later and started asking me why I went to raves. He then accused me of being on drugs. I obviously denied. He then said I wouldn't get charged because I had done nothing wrong in going to a rave.

He told me I was drawing attention to myself by putting such things on my wall and advised me not to. I thought 'bollocks' and put them back up and will continue to put up flyers and newsletters and anymore magazine cuttings. Then if they come in again I don't have to do anything unless they have material evidence of me being on drugs and they'll get %$#! off. I've got nothing to hide.

Karl Harborne, Tamworth

Thanks for the letter from R.P. of Scunthorpe about your bad experience at the Sanctuary. Sorry to hear about your mate, but we couldn't print the letter as it was too long.

Dear Quest,

I am just writing to say a big thanks to all at the QUEST & Dreamscape crew for a wicked night on 3/7/93. I've been to Quest a few times before and next to the birthday party last year this was the best Saturday night I've ever had. The main reason I came this night was to see TOP BUZZ (No. 1) but unfortunately due to the state my mate got himself into I had to leave just as DJ SY finished his set and even though missing TOP BUZZ put a bit of a downer on the night, I still went home buzzin' (respect to Jay, Phil, Dik & Jacko, you lot made my night). Dougal & Sy were both wicked and MC Robbie Dee kicked that night. I'm not into DJ Clarkie's choice of music though, give me jungle and hardcore over techno anyday.

Once again thanks for a bad night out!!

Si, Telford

I am looking for someone to write to, male or female. Write to Theresa Watts, 175 City Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham B16 0NW
